BIOGRAPHY

THE SOUND

Aaron Decay is a Paris-based producer of melodic house and emotional dance music.

His name brings together two of his biggest influences, Paul Kalkbrenner and Gui Boratto, and so does his music: house with a lot of emotion and melody, moving between melodic house and emotional dance. Drawn to electronic music through the clubs, he builds every track around atmosphere first, with long intros and vocal breaks that work as well in headphones as on a dancefloor.

Since 2023 he has released a new single every month, reaching 330,000 monthly listeners on Spotify and more than 10 million streams across platforms in 2026 alone, with audiences across Latin America, Europe and North America. In 2026 his tracks landed on editorial playlists across Spotify, Apple Music, Deezer and Beatport. He also curates two top-ranked playlists on SubmitHub.

ON STAGE

LIVE SET

No pre-recorded mix: Aaron Decay performs his own productions live, rebuilding intros, breaks and drops in real time from Ableton Live, a launchpad and a MIDI controller. The set moves from deep, atmospheric openings to emotional peak-time moments.
